

Maternity and Women's Health Care Nursing

Outline

In undergraduate and postgraduate education, we are responsible for Maternity and Women's Health Care Nursing. Maternal Nursing focuses on women's health and reproductive health. Our research interests are listed below.

Faculty members

Professor: Miwa Tsuneta, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor: Yukiko Nozaki, MSN.

Main research in progress

- 1) Postpartum support for mothers
- 2) Reproductive health/rights in developing countries
- 3) Birth intention

Current publications

- 1) Tsuneta, M. et al. "Moderate effects of sense of coherence on the relationship between postpartum depression and its related factors at a teaching hospital in Sri Lanka" Journal of nursing and social services 2022,29,9-19.
- 2) Shinkawa, K. Tsuneta, M. Sujana. T. "Report on postpartum traditional habits in West Timor of Republic of Indonesia". Journal of Sapporo University of Health Sciences 2017, 3, 87–96.
- 3) Tsuneta, M. et al. "The effects of intervention to learning of a project cycle management(PCM) technique for trainees of JICA maternal and child health(B)-according to analysis of three countries, Morocco, Burkina Faso, Haiti-". Journal of Sapporo University of Health Sciences 2016, 2, 51–62 (in Japanese).
- 4) Tsuneta, M. et al. "Present Situation and Issues of Nursing Education in French-Speaking African Five Countries-According to Reports of Members of JICA Maternal and Child Health Training-". Journal of Sapporo University of Health Sciences 2014, 1, 65–74 (in Japanese).
- 5) Nozaki,Y." A literature review on the factors associated with 'childbearing intention' of women" . Journal of Sapporo University of Health Sciences 2021, 1, 69–81 (in Japanese).
- 6) Nozaki,Y. "The Relationship between Nursing student's need for Support from teachers in Clinical Practice and Difficulties Experienced by Students in School Life Due to Developmental Disorders" . Journal of Japan Academy of Nursing Education 2021, 31,1, 29–41 (in Japanese).

【 Education Field 】

Maternity and Women's Health Care Nursing

【 Research Field 】

Maternal/ Women's health

Reproductive health/rights in developing countries