

Social Welfare Course

(Course Overview)

In the social welfare (social work) course, we emphasize the importance of the social work practice seminar and field placement, which are foundational to social work practice. Our course's objective is for students to develop a sense of human rights advocacy and to obtain practical skills as a social work professional. The four-year curriculum, which covers areas of child welfare, disability, welfare for the aged, medical social work, school social work, and the teaching profession, will prepare students with high-level interpersonal support skills, applicable clinical skills, and ethical values.

Faculty members

Name: Yukio Suzuki
Speciality: Child Welfare
Class Subject: Child Welfare, Social Work with Families and Children

Name: Koichi Shido
Speciality: Epidemiological Welfare Studies
Class Subject: Social Welfare Research, Public Health, Basic Statistics

Name: Yosie Ootomo
Speciality: Social Welfare
Class Subject: Social Work, Social Support for Low Income Families and Public Assistance

Name: Jun Shiraishi
Speciality: Educational Law and Regulation, Educational Management
Class Subject: Pedagogy, Practice Teaching

Name: Satoshi Hasegawa
Speciality: Communication research and practice for the community
Applied informatics for social services
Class Subject: Communication practice, Applied informatics for social services

Name: Yasuhiro Maki
Speciality: Social Work
Class Subject: Social Work in Health Care Service

Name: Maki Fukuma
Speciality: Educational welfare, School social work
Class Subject: Social Work, School Social Work Theory

Name: Akina Kawawa
Speciality: Social Welfare
Class Subject: Seminar for Social Work Practice, Field Instruction for Basic Social Work Practice

Name: Naoya Kondo
Speciality: Welfare theory of persons with disabilities
Class Subject: Psychology, physiology, and pathology for children with intellectual disabilities

Name: Nozomi Matsumoto
Speciality: Dementia care
Class Subject: Theory of Advocacy and Adult Guardianship